46,000 ACRE LAKE GEORGE

WELAKA - GEORGETOWN, FL

Halfway between the cities of Palatka and Deland in the northeast part of Florida lies the small town of Welaka. It sits on the east bank of the world-renowned St. Johns River and can be a challenge to find. But you'll definitely know when you're in Welaka once you feel like you've time-traveled back to old-world Florida with its back streets shaded by lush oak trees and beautiful historic buildings.

Today, WELAKA - GEORGETOWN remains a quiet resort town and an open secret among bass anglers. With access to St. Johns River and the springs and streams that feed this great river, it's a fantastic and pristine destination to enjoy some challenging fishing. And because fishing is a way of life in this town, you won't have a hard time looking for a charter or boat rental or even boat repair shops and services. So if you're ready for the bass fishing experience of a lifetime, head south of Jacksonville and find your way around the town.

Welaka Fishing

Fishing in Welaka means having the banks and tributaries of the great St. Johns River right on your very doorstep. This is significant as St. Johns River is one of the most legendary bodies of water running through Florida. It's the longest one in the state and is considered its most important river for recreational and commercial purposes. It is one of the country's most unique as it flows up north. As an ancient body of water, it has nurtured a diverse set of flora and fauna and has helped build up numerous communities and cities through which it flows.

Lake George or Lake Welaka, one of the biggest tributaries of St. Johns River flows through the town. It is the second-largest lake in the state, next to Lake Okeechobee. The lake itself is vast, shallow, and brackish, with enough salt in the waters to make it conducive for marine species such as blue crabs and fish species such as the Atlantic stingray, striped bass, sunfish, largemouth bass, and mullet.

There are many great points to fish Lake George and many of them are easily accessible from Welaka. One is Nine Mile Point, a fishing spot that's less than an hour away from town. This is the most popular area to fish Lake George, as it has miles of shorelines where you can fish. The eastern stretch of the lake, on the other hand, offers structure and is protected from the wind, so it's a breeze to fish in the area. The western part of the lake may be quite productive and has many creeks where you can enjoy fishing for striped bass, largemouth bass, black crappie, and sunfish.

Ocklawaha River is St. Johns River's largest tributary, its main body of water and drainage basin spanning the counties of Marion, Putnam, Orange, Alachua, and Lake. Its waters have a naturally rapid flow, but experts have pointed out that the Rodman Dam slowed down its flow which caused and continues to cause the proliferation of aquatic weeds in the waters of the river.

You can access the river via Highway 40 near Silver Springs and Highway 316 near Eureka. In the parts of the river that offer vegetation and underwater structure, there's plenty of largemouth bass fishing to be had. Downstream of Rodman Dam, you can target channel and white catfish.

Ocala National Forest is a seven-mile drive from Welaka and is a fantastic destination filled with many fishing spots. It has a unique old-world charm and serves as a rich habitat for diverse wildlife including ospreys, alligators, and even American bald eagles. Best of all, it is home to more than 600 rivers, lakes, and ponds, many of which offer great fishing. Some of the species you can catch here include largemouth bass, bluegill, redear sunfish, warmouth, and black crappie. The best bodies of water to fish in Ocala? The Rodman Reservoir is one. It is most known for its healthy fish population and its trophy bass. When fishing in the reservoir, look out for vegetation such as eelgrass and lily pads. Use Carolina-rigged worms when targeting bass and troll with live minnows when fishing for panfish. Doe Lake and Orange Lake are still two more bodies of water you must fish in the forest. Orange Lake, for one, is vast at 13,000 acres. It has a fishing pier but you can launch a boat in the lake to target bluegill.

Top 10 Fish Species in Welaka-Georgetown, FL

The top 10 fish species to target in Wekela, FL include largemouth bass, striped bass, sunfish, bluegill, black crappie, white catfish, channel catfish, mullet, shad, and warmouth.

Seasonal Fishing

Fishing in Welaka, as in the rest of Florida, is productive all year round, with fish active and biting no matter what time of the year. The best time to fish the area now depends on what fish species you're targeting. Crappie and other panfish are available all year round, though they are best caught during winter and early spring when they're spawning. So are largemouth bass, though their activity is highly dependent on rain and weather. Around spring, they can be found in shallow waters for their spawning season. Adult bluegill and redear sunfish can be targeted in the deeper waters during summer.

September 2025 -- NEWS

Bass Pro Shops acquires over 3,000 acres on the St Johns River in Welaka-Georgetown for future development as a fishing and Branson style resort area!

PUTNAM COUNTY, Fla. — Welaka is a town of 717 people, one traffic light, and access to the St. Johns River.

And now, Welaka Mayor Jamie Watts has confirmed Bass Pro Shops is indeed going to build in and near his small town.

"It is a reality. It is a reality for Welaka," Watts told First Coast News. Welaka sits just south of Palatka in Putnam County.

"It's going to obviously be some sort of resort. It's not going to be a Bass Pro Shops store," Watts said.

Bass Pro Shops has resorts, such as the Big Cedar Lodge in Missouri. One night's stay in the cheapest room there runs almost $300 this summer. Watts calculated how much land Bass Pro Shops has bought in Putnam County.

Pulling out a map, Watts said, "If you look at the size of the town here in orange, and then you look at the land that's been acquired, this is larger than the town of Welaka." The size of the town on the map was a fraction of the size of the land Bass Pro Shops had acquired.

Experts say: ... “Land prices will be increasing accordingly, and that now is the time to invest in land in the Welaka – Georgetown area (Georgetown Cove & Lake George Manor) located between the St. Johns River and the 46,000 acre Lake George”

THE NEXT 10 PROPERTIES BELOW ARE WITHIN 2 to 5 MINUTES OF THE 46,000 ACRE LAKE GEORGE AND THE ST JOHNS RIVER!

The community is known for its friendly atmosphere and community spirit, making it an ideal place to raise a family or enjoy a relaxing environment in this waterfront community!
